A NEW DEPOT IN SIGHT

Asst. Supt. Urbahns of the Soo Line Makes Promises to Village Board

DEPOT WEST SIDE OF TRACK

The Official Also Promises a New Through Train Which Will Start on or About October the Third

Pursuant to the passage of an ordinance passed by the village board the second day of August, 1910, requiring the Soo Line officials to construct and maintain gates at railroad crossings in the village of Antioch, Assistant Superintendent Urbahns of the road arranged for a meeting with a committee of the Village Board Wednesday afternoon of this week.

The committee consisted of B. F. Nabers, Geo. Webb and Ray Hubbard together with the village president Dr. E. H. Ames. At the meeting, the road agreed with the village officers regarding the need of a protection at the depot crossing, and also the great need of a new and more adequate depot and stated that it was his belief that the company would sooner erect a new and better depot, and that on the west side of the track than to construct crossing gates.

This proposition of building a new depot on the west side of the track met with the approval of the trustees, and the superintendent promised to do all in his power to bring the change about.

He further explained to the committee that on the third day of next month a new fast train is to be installed, which will stop in Antioch, on signal, for Chicago passengers.

This train going south will leave Antioch at about 7:15 and will arrive in Chicago at 9:00 o'clock a. m., north-bound it will leave Chicago at 7:00 o'clock and will arrive at Antioch at about 8:30 p. m.

Rumors in regard to Antioch having the service of a fast train have been afloat for some time but on account of the question having been so often agitated very little credence has been given to the report, but now that one of the officials of the company has confirmed the report and given us facts and figures it looks as though we were to be recognized at last.

A better train service is the one thing that the residents of Antioch and vicinity have been in need of for a long time and its inauguration will certainly meet with the hearty approval of the many patrons of the road.

RE-LET AUDIT CONTRACT

Supervisors Confirm Previous Action—Graham Much Angered

The Board of Supervisors last Monday evening, by a good majority, voted to confirm the contract made last spring with Young & Company for auditing the books of county officers for a consideration of $3,800.

The auditors Tuesday morning telephoned that they would have men on the job Wednesday morning and will rush the work to completion. This is the firm which started work last spring on the job but was summarily stopped after certain supervisors had insisted the price was too high and intimated that the company's reliability was in question because of developments in the city of Chicago-Chicago Telephone Company audit in which it was shown the auditors were working in the interests of both corporations there.

The fact that minority member of the audit committee, Graham of Grant, had received offers to audit for prices ranging from $2,300 to $2,800, from concerns he regards just as reliable as Young & Company and that the board did not even see fit to hear those bids read, caused much incense. He said of the matter: "Just why they have taken this stand after we have got the bids for cheaper price, I cannot understand. I shall insist on having the bids read tomorrow. I also intend to see to it that, in the future, the board is placed on record on any and may vote that the public may see how the respective members vote on the matter of spending the moneys. They curtail in some things and then overlook things in larger items."

The request for $300 from the dairymen for use in the tubercular test of cows was left over to December; $75 was appropriated for the farmers' institute.

Courtesy Should Be Mutual.

Persons who complain about the lack of respect for age exhibited by American youth do not always think it necessary to set an example of good manners to the rising generation by treating them with respect. Such persons might learn a lesson from the Japanese. "Not only are children gentle and courteous to their elders in Japan," says a recent writer on the Lotos Land, "but their elders are also gentle and courteous to them. Courtesy is mutual. The old folk never forget that they themselves were at one time young, and the young seem to divine instinctively what is due to age."

Footgear Brought Success.

It was the sturdy sandals of the Teutonic tribes that enabled them to march across Europe to the walls of Rome, and we know that the footgear of an army is still a most important part of its equipment. Those whom the Romans called Scythians wore rough sheepskin boots and the Gauls were already noted for their wooden soles.

FEDERAL DETECTIVES ARE BUSY

Tries to Gain Information at Gordon Place and is Ordered From Premises

FITZGERALD IS INDICTED

Every Movement of Lake Forester Suspected of $173,000 Subtreasury Theft is Being Traced

Federal spies, to the number of fifty or more, are now in Lake county, especially at Lake Forest, uncovering every movement of George Fitzgerald suspected of the $173,000 subtreasury theft three years ago in Chicago, from the time of the theft down to the present.

They are also shadowing his friends and acquaintances, and the latter are getting so uneasy at the constant surveillance that they dodge at shadows, and hear signals in every breeze that blows.

Saturday, at the Gordon Brothers' store in Lake Forest, a man who claimed he was a life insurance agent invaded the store, and began to cross-question in regard to the Gordons' connection with the Fitzgerald case.

"You're a tin star, and not an insurance agent, aren't you?" angrily demanded Gordon.

"That's what I am," said the insurance agent.

"You get out of here right away, or I will not answer for you, tin star or not," shouted Gordon, and the man left.

It is said that every one whom Fitzgerald knew even slightly is being shadowed, and that Lake Forest's part alone in the drama of the $173,000 would make several dime novels.

Declaring he is anxious for immediate vindication, George W. Fitzgerald, former federal employe, charged with stealing $173,000 from the Chicago subtreasury, Saturday, prepared to visit United States District Attorney Sims' office and demand an immediate trial. He also said he would renew his fight for the return of papers taken from him at the time of his arrest.

District Attorney Sims denied that the grand jury that indicted Fitzgerald had returned other secret indictments in connection with the case.

Law is a sort of hocus pocus science, which smiles in your face while it picks your pockets.—Charles Mocklin.

INTENTION IS A SUCCESS

Ice Loading Machine Patented by L. C. Barthel Working at Lake Villa

The first working model of the lifting and hoisting crane recently patented by L. C. Barthel of this place is now in operation at the Knickerbocker ice house at Lake Villa.

The device has so far worked to perfection, doing all that its inventor has claimed that it would accomplish. With its aid an ice car is loaded by two men in a shorter length of time than has heretofore been required by five men to do the same work, or in other words the machine is doing the work of three men.

This fact alone, even if it had no other special features to recommend it will soon make it a regular part of an ice house equipment. And now that its success is practically assured, Mr. Barthel is in line to reap a rich reward for his labors in perfecting so useful a machine.

REBEKAHS CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Tuesday evening of this week the members of the local Rebekah lodge celebrated the fifty-ninth anniversary of the organization of that order and about sixty Odd Fellows and Rebekahs gathered to pay tribute to the memory of that occasion when Schuyler Colfax founded the first Rebekah lodge ever in existence.

The evening was most pleasantly spent by all and a program consisting of recitations, songs and music was rendered. About 11 o'clock a sumptuous supper was served after which all dispersed feeling that it was indeed a privilege to be numbered among the Rebekahs.

DEATH CLAIMS LITTLE SON OF WM. BELTER

Saturday of last week Mr. and Mrs. William Belter of Lake Catherine were called upon to part with their infant son when death entered their home and claimed the little one at about seven o'clock in the evening. The child which was only six weeks of age had been quite ill for several days and its death was not unexpected.

The funeral was held at the home Monday afternoon at one o'clock, with Rev. F. R. McNamer officiating. The interment taking place in the Hillside cemetery.

Vacation Diversions in Maine.

Francis F. Mitchell, a New York man on a vacation in Maine, had the surprise of his life the other day while driving along a road a few miles from Bangor. He was sitting back in the seat enjoying the beautiful scenery, when he was startled to see a frightened deer spring from the forest at the roadside and leap into the carriage, falling between the dashboard and the horse. The latter kicked until the vehicle was demolished. After both horse and deer had kicked about for three minutes the child of the forest managed to extricate itself and then ran back to its retreat, apparently none the worse for its experience.

A Drawing From Memory.

Everybody knows of the extraordinary talent of several of the Emmet girls for painting and drawing. Jane Erin Emmet, who married Vohn Glehn, the London painter, can do a speaking crayon drawing of anybody in less time than it takes to tell it. Once in London she met a young man in the street and never saw him again. Some years afterward his mother came to her in grief and despair. The young man had died suddenly, and there was no portrait, photograph or other likeness of him to console the family. Jane Emmet did a crayon of him from the memory of that chance meeting in the street and it is prized by his family beyond all their other possessions.

Break Parlor Bed.

One of the furniture dealers of Paris is showing a novelty in the form of a bed. It is to all appearances an ordinary bed, but the weight of the body upon it sets clockwork in motion, thus operating a music box which gives forth soothing melodies. The lullabies which is played are supposed to induce sleep. By means of a dial at the head of the bed the person who occupies it fixes an alarm for the next morning. This produces, when the hour arrives, discordant sounds, to which the person in bed must pay heed, because failure to rise within five minutes after the noise has begun will cause the bottom of the bed to fall out.

Why?

If it is true that the world has gone completely to the bow-wows, and that vice and corruption are in control, why is that our penitentiaries have no more attraction than they do for men who call themselves honest?

BULLOCK IS CHOSEN CHAIRMAN

Wins Over Connolly by One Vote at Meeting at Court House Monday

GRADY HEADS DEMOCRATS

Delegates to State, Senatorial and Congressional Conventions Selected and Executive Committee Appointed

By one vote Monday at the meeting of the Republican county central committee at the Court house at two, Robert Connolly was defeated for county central chairman by William S. Bullock, former mayor, of Waukegan who is now the Lake county Republican central committee chairman.

Bullock has been openly in the field ever since the opened primary day and with seven in Waukegan in favor of him, gained enough county support later to put the deal through. The Chief of Police, who now retires as county chairman, filed the office at the head of county Republicans with satisfactions to every one.

E. Wayne Colby, Libertyville attorney, was chosen secretary, tying with Frank Eddy of Waukegan on the first ballot and latter winning by two, showing close contests throughout the session.

The meeting is still on, the delegates choosing other delegates to the state senatorial and congressional conventions.

Eight Democratic delegates attended the Democratic county central meeting. There was no call for this meeting, as in the case of the Republican meeting, but the primary law providers that the committeemen shall meet the first Monday after the primaries, so the delegates should have known what was doing, it is maintained.

Daniel A. Grady was elected county Democratic chairman, William Ward secretary, and Messrs. Grady, Peter McDermott, Ward, A. G. Mather, Geo. Jackson, and Tom Graham delegates to the State Democratic convention.

Before adjournment the Republican county central committee adopted this resolution:

"Resolved, That the regular nominees of the Republican party at the primaries held September 15, 1910, be and are declared by this convention to be the regularly nominated candidates of the Republican party and entitled to the support of the Republican party at the election to be held in November and these committeemen are instructed to work for their success."

ENGELHARD IS GRATEFUL

Candidate Who Made Remarkable Run Thanks Lake County Friends

To The Editor:—

Permit me through your columns to express my grateful appreciation of the splendid support given my candidacy for Congress by the Republicans of Lake County. Considering that I waited until the last day for filing my nominating petition, in the hope that another would make the aggressive fight against Mr. Foss that had to be made in justice to the district, and considering also that until three weeks ago I was wholly unknown to the people of the county and without the suggestion of an organization, I must regard the splendid vote given me not as tribute to my personal popularity, but to the determined spirit of protest against the rule of the predatory interests at Washington and the consequent robbery of the people as fostered and enforced by Speaker Cannon and supported by his allies in the House, among whom Mr. Foss was found on every vote.

Though defeated for the nomination I have no regret that the fight was made. It fell to my lot this time to defend the cause of the people. Should the duty come to me again, I shall not be unprepared. But in any event I have made friendships to be prized for a life-time and have met the people in a way to give me renewed confidence in their determination and ability to preserve for all time the traditions and principles of a free government dedicated to the rights of man as against the assumed rights of property and to the defense and advancement of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" for all our people.

Sincerely yours,
George P. Engelhard.

Mr. Ferry Also Thankful

To My Many Friends:—
Kindly accept this message as my most sincere expression of gratitude for your hearty support in my candidacy for the office of County Clerk, until such time as I may be in position to leave the hospital and meet you personally to express myself more appropriately.

Again thanking you most kindly I beg to remain,

Most gratefully yours,
Miram W. Ferry.

Green is Appreciative

A word of appreciation to the voters of Lake county: I wish to thank you one and all for the magnificent support given me at the primaries September 15. If elected to the office of sheriff of Lake county I shall endeavor to justify the confidence which you evidently had in me when you voted.

Sincerely yours,
Elmer J. Green.

Hay Fever.

The symptoms of irritation in back of nose and throat, with dryness and heat in the nasal passages, with running and dripping back into the throat of mucus at times, indicates hay fever trouble. In some cases the eyes water with other symptoms, as of a severe cold in the head. To relieve this complaint a soothing antiseptic spray lotion should be used several times a day, spraying back of the throat and nasal passages thoroughly. Great relief can be secured from the inhalation of ordinary lavender smelling salts.

Universalists.

The doctrine of Universalism is very ancient. It was taught by Zoroaster, centuries before Christ, and was held by some of the greatest of the church fathers, among whom were Origen, Gregory, of Nyssa; Gregory Nazianzen and others. The doctrine was not condemned until the time of the fifth general council of Constantinople, 553. It was revived by the Unitarians in the seventeenth century and reorganized in 1770 by John Murray, the "father" of the denomination in America.

Wireless Operation on Trains.

The Union Pacific Railroad company is conducting extensive experiments with the hope of making wireless telegraphy available for the operation of trains.

Don't Break Down

Severe strains on the vital organs, like strains on machinery, cause breakdowns. You can't over-tax stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. Is you are weak or run-down, or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters the matchless, tonic medicine. Mrs. J. E. Van de Sande, of Kirkland, Ill., writes: "That I could not break down, while enduring a most severe strain, for three months, is due wholly to Electric Bitters." Use them and enjoy health and strength. Satisfaction positively guaranteed. 50c. at J. H. Swan's.

The Courage of Captain Plum

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

SYNOPSIS.

Captain Nathaniel Plum of the sloop Typhoon, lands secretly on Beaver Island, Lake Michigan, stronghold of the Mormons. Obadiah Price, an eccentric old man and counselor of the Mormons, who has been spying on him, suddenly confronts him and tells him he is expected. Plum insists he has got the wrong man. Price ignores his protestations and bargains for the ammunition on board the sloop. He binds Nat by a solemn oath to deliver a package to Franklin Pierce, president of the United States. He agrees to show Plum the Mormon town, St. James. Plum sees the frightened face of a young woman in the darkness near Price's cabin. She disappears, leaving an odor of lilacs. It develops that Plum's visit to Beaver Island is to demand settlement from the king, Strang, for the looting of his ship some time previously by men whom he suspected of being Mormons. Burke, his mate, has been left in charge of the sloop with orders to bombard St. James if the captain does not return within a certain time. Price takes Nat secretly in the darkness to the king's house, and through a window he sees Strang and his seven wives, among whom is the lady of the lilacs, who Price says is the seventh wife. Price's actions lead Plum to believe that he is jealous of Strang. Plum calls at the king's office, where a young woman warns him that his life is in danger, and urges him to return to his ship. He refuses. Strang receives Plum cordially, professes great indignation when he hears the captain's grievance and promises to investigate and punish the guilty.

CHAPTER IV.—Continued.

"Ah, you wish to see the whippers?" The king smiled his approval. "That is one way we have of punishing slight misdemeanors in our kingdom, Captain Plum. It is an illustration of our intolerance of evil-doers." He turned suddenly toward the girl. "Winnsome, my dear, have you copied the paper I was at work on? I wish to show it to Captain Plum."

He walked slowly toward her and for the first time since her warning Nathaniel had an opportunity of observing the girl without fear of being perceived by the prophet. She was very young, hardly more than a child he would have guessed at first; and yet at second and more careful glance he knew that she could not be under fifteen—perhaps sixteen. Her whole attire was one to add to her childish appearance. Her hair, which was rather short, fell in lustrous dark curls about her face and upon her neck. She wore a fitted coat-like blouse, and knee skirts which disclosed a pretty pair of legs and ankles. As Strang was returning with the paper which she handed to him the girl turned her face to Captain Plum. Her mouth was formed into a round red O and she pointed anxiously to where she had thrown the note. The king's eyes were on his paper and Nathaniel nodded to assure her that he understood.

"I am like a gardener who compels every passing neighbor to go into his back yard and admire his first sprouts," laughed the prophet jovially. "In other words, I do a little writing, and I take a kind of childish joy in making other people read it. But I see this is not in proper shape, so you have escaped. It is a brief history of Beaver Island written at the request of the Smithsonian Institute, which has already published an article of mine. If you happen to be on the island tomorrow and should you return to this office I shall certainly have you read it if I have to call all of my shorties into service!"

He laughed with such open good humor that Nathaniel found himself smiling despite the varied unpleasant sensations within him. "Do you write much?" he asked.

"I get out a daily paper," said the king rather proudly, "and of course, as prophet, I am the translator of what word may be handed down to us from heaven for the direction and commandment of my people. I hold the secret of the Urim and Thummim, which was first delivered by angels into the hands of Joseph, and with it have revealed the word of God as it appears in a book which I have written. Ah—I had forgotten this!" From among a mass of papers and books on the table he drew forth a blue-covered pamphlet and passed it to his companion. "I have only a few copies left but you may have this one, Captain Plum. It will surely interest you. In it I have set forth the troubles existing between my own people and the Egyptian-rotted criminals that infest Mackinac and the mainland, and have described our struggle for chastity and honor against these human vultures. It was published two years ago. But conditions are different today. Now—now I am king, and the oppressors in the fifth of their crime have become the oppressed!"

The last words boomed from him in a slogan of triumph and as if in echoing mockery there came from the open door the chuckling, mirthless laugh of Obadiah Price.

"Yea—yea—even into the land of the Lamanites are you king!"

At the sound of his voice Strang turned toward him and the sonorous triumph that rumbled in his throat faded to a low greeting. And Nathaniel saw that the little old counselor's eyes glittered boldly as they met the prophet's and that in their glance was neither fear nor servitude but rather a light as of master meeting master. The two advanced and clasped hands and a few low words passed between them while Nathaniel went to the door.

"I will go with you, Captain Nathaniel Plum," called Obadiah. "I will go with you and show you the town."

"The counselor will be your friend," added Strang. "Today he carries with him that authority from the king."

He bowed and Nathaniel passed through the door. Looking back he caught a last warning flash from the girl's eyes. As he hurried down the stair he heard the counselor pause for an instant upon the landing and taking advantage of this opportunity he picked up the crumpled paper, and read these lines:

"Hurry to your ship. In another hour men will be watching for an opportunity to kill you. You will never leave the island alive—unless you go now. The girl you saw through the window sends you this warning."

He thrust the paper into his coat pocket as Obadiah came up behind him.

"Ho, ho, Nat, my boy, I have come fast to catch you—I have come fast!" he whispered. He caught his companion by the arm and Nathaniel felt his hand trembling violently. "Come this way, Nat—beyond the temple. I have things to say to you." His voice was strangely unnatural and when Captain Plum looked down into his face the look in the bead-like eyes startled him. "Nat, you must hurry away with the package!"

"So I understand—if I save my skin. Obadiah Price, I have a notion to kill you!"

They had passed beyond the huge edifice of logs, and as he stopped, hidden from the view of the king's office, Nathaniel caught the counselor's arm in a grip that crushed to the bone.

"I have a notion to kill you!" he repeated.

The old man stood unflinching. Not a muscle of his face quivered as the captain's fingers sank into the flesh.

"At the first sign of treachery, at the first sign of danger to myself, I shall shoot you dead!" he finished.

"You may, Nat, you may. From this moment until you leave the island I shall be at your side and no harm shall come to you. But if there should, Nat, or if there should come a moment when you believe that I am your enemy—shoot me!" There was sincerity in his voice that carried conviction to Nathaniel's heart and he released his hold upon the counselor's arm. Regardless of the mystery that surrounded him he believed in Obadiah. But there rose in his breast a mad desire to choke this old man into telling him the truth, to force him to reveal the secrets of this strange plot into which he had been drawn and of which he knew as little as when he first set foot in Strang's kingdom. Yet he realized even as the desire formed itself in his brain that such an effort would be useless.

"If you had remained at the cabin, Nat, you would have known that I was your friend," continued Obadiah. "She would have come to you, but now—it is impossible. You know. You have been warned!"

Nathaniel drew Winnsome's note from his pocket and read it aloud. Obadiah smiled gleefully when he noticed how carefully he kept the handwriting from his eyes.

"Ah, Nat, you are a noble fellow!" he cried, rubbing his hands in his old tireless way. "You would not betray pretty little Winn, eh? And who do you suppose told Winnsome to give you this note?"

"Strang's wife."

"Yea, even so. And it was she who set my old legs a-running for you, my boy. Come, let us move!"

The little counselor was his old self again, chuckling and grinning and rubbing his hands, and his eyes danced as he spoke of the girl.

"Casey is not a cautious man," he gurgled with a sudden upward leer. "Casey is a fool!"

"Casey!" almost shouted Captain Plum. "What the devil do you mean?"

"Ho, ho, ho—haven't you guessed the truth yet, Nat? While you and I were getting acquainted last night a couple of fishermen from the mainland dropped alongside your sloop. They had been robbed by the Mormon pirates. They cursed Strang. They swore vengeance. And your cautious Casey cursed with 'em, and fed 'em, and drank with 'em—and he would have had them stay until morning only they were anxious to hurry with their report to Strang. Understand, Nat? Eh? Do you understand?"

"What did Casey tell them?" gasped Nathaniel.

Obadiah hunched his shoulders. "Enough to warrant a bullet through your head, Nat. Cheerful, isn't it? But we'll fool them, Nat, we'll fool them! You shall board your ship and hurry away with the package, and they shall make love to Strang's wife—for she will go with you!"

He stopped to enjoy the amazement that was written in every lineament of the other's face. The red blood surged into Nathaniel's neck and deepened on his bronzed cheeks. Slowly the reaction came. When he spoke there was an uneasy gleam in his eyes and his voice was as hard as steel.

"She will go with me, counselor! And why?"

Obadiah had laughed softly as he watched the change. Suddenly he jerked himself erect.

"Sh-h-h!" he whispered. "Keep cool, Nat! Don't show any excitement or fear. Here comes the man who is to kill you!"

He made no move save with his eyes.

"He is coming to speak with me and to get a good look at you," he added in excited haste. "Appear friendly. Agree with what I say. He is the chief of sheriffs, the king's murderer—Arbor Croche!"

He turned as if he had just seen the approaching figure. And he whispered softly, "Winnsome's father!"

Arbor Croche! Nathaniel gave an involuntary shudder as he turned with Obadiah. Croche, chief of sheriffs, scourge of the mainland—the Attila of the Mormon kingdom, whose very name caused the women of the shores to turn white and on whose head the men had secretly set a price in gold!

Without knowing it his hand went under his coat. Obadiah saw the movement and as he advanced to meet the officer of the king he jerked the arm back fiercely. Half a dozen paces away the chief of sheriffs paused and bowed low. But the counselor stood erect, as he had stood before the king, smiling and nodding his head.

"Ah, Croche," he greeted, "good morning!"

"Good morning, counselor!"

"Sheriff, I would have you meet Capt. Nathaniel Plum, master of the sloop Typhoon. Captain Plum this is his majesty's officer, Arbor Croche!"

The two men advanced and shook hands. Nathaniel stood half a head above the sheriff, who, like his master, the king, was short and of massive build, though a much younger man. He was a dark, lowering hulk of a creature, with black eyes, black hair, and a hand-clasp that showed him possessed of great strength.

"You are a stranger, Captain Plum?"

The counselor replied quickly.

"He has never been at St. James before, sheriff. I have invited him to stay over to see the whippers. By the way—" he shot a suggestive look at the officer. "By the way, Croche, I want you to see him safely aboard his

"Here Comes the Man Who Is to Kill You!"

sloop tonight. His ship is at the lower end of the island, and if you will detail a couple of men just before dusk—an escort, you know."

Nathaniel felt a curious thrill creep up his spine at the satisfaction which betrayed itself in the officer's black face.

"It will give me great pleasure, counselor," he interrupted. "I shall escort you myself if you will allow me, Captain Plum!"

"Thank you," said Nathaniel.

"Captain Plum is to remain with me throughout the day," added Obadiah. "Come at seven—to my place. Ah, I see that people are assembling near the jail!"

"We have changed our plans somewhat, counselor." The officer turned to Nathaniel. "You will see the whippers within half an hour, Captain Plum." He turned away with another bow to the counselor and hastened in the direction of Strang's office.

"So that is the gentleman who thinks he is going to put a bullet through me!" exclaimed Nathaniel when the officer had gone beyond hearing. He laughed, and there was a kind of wild expectant joy in his voice.

"Obadiah, can you not make arrangements for him to go with me alone?"

"He will not go with you at all, Nat," gloated the old man. "Ho, ho, we are playing at his own game—treachery. When he calls at my place you will be aboard ship."

"But I should like to have a talk with him—alone, and in the woods. God—I know a man at Grand Traverse bay whose wife and daughter—"

"Sh-h-h-h!" interrupted the counselor. "Would you kill little Winnsome's father?"

"Her father? That animal! That murderer! Is it true?"

"But you should have seen her mother, Nat, you should have seen her mother!" The old man twisted his hands, like a miser ravished by the sight of gold. "She was beautiful—as beautiful as a wild flower, and she killed herself three years ago to save the birth of another child into this hell. Little Winn is like her mother, Nat."

"And she lives with him?"

"Er, yes—and guarded, oh, so carefully guarded by Strang, Nat! Yes, I guess that some day she will be a queen."

"Great God!" cried the young man. "And you—you live in this cesspool of sin and still believe in a heaven?"

"Yes, I believe in a heaven. And my reward there shall be great. Ho, ho, I am taking no middle road, Nat!"

NO CLOUDS IN SIGHT

COLONEL GEORGE HARVEY SAYS COUNTRY ALL RIGHT.

THE WRITER SEES NO CLOUD

Striking Article in North American Review That is Attracting Wide Attention.

The attention of business and professional men in all portions of the country has been attracted to a strikingly strong article by Col. George Harvey in the September issue of the North American Review in which the writer takes a view of the greatest hopefulness for the future of America and Americans. The article is entitled "A Plea for the Conservation of Common Sense," and it is meeting with the cordial approval of business men of all shades of political opinion throughout the entire country. In part, Colonel Harvey says:

"Unquestionably a spirit of unrest dominates the land. But, if it be true that fundamentally the condition of the country is sound, must we necessarily succumb to despondency, abandon effort looking to retrieval and cringe like cravens before clouds that only threaten? Rather ought we not to analyze conditions, search for causes, and the root of the distress, which even now exists only in men's minds, and then, after the American fashion, apply such remedies as seem most likely to produce beneficent results?"

Capital and Labor Not Antagonistic.

"The Link that connects labor with capital is not broken but we may not deny that it is less cohesive than it should be—or than conditions warrant. Financially, the country is stronger than ever before in its history. Recovery from a panic so severe as that of three years ago was never before so prompt and comparatively complete. The masses are practically free from debt. Money is held by the banks in abundance and rates are low.

"Why, then, does capital pause upon the threshold of investment? The answer, we believe, to be plain. It awaits adjustment of the relations of government to business. . . . The sole problem consists of determining how government can maintain an even balance between aggregations of interests, on the one hand, and the whole people, on the other, protecting the latter against extortion and saving the former from mad assaults."

"The solution is not easy to find for the simple reason that the situation is without precedent. But is not progress being made along sane and cautious lines? . . ."

Conserve Common Sense.

"Is not the present, as we have seen, exceptionally secure? What, then, of preparations for the future? Patriotism is the basis of our institutions. And patriotism in the minds of our youth is no longer linked solely with fireworks and deeds of daring. It is taught in our schools. A new course has been added—a course in loyalty. Methodically, our children learn how to vote, how to conduct primaries, conventions and elections, how to discriminate between qualifications of candidates and, finally, how to govern as well as serve. They are taught to despise bribery and all forms of corruption and fraud and treason. Their creed, which they are made to know by heart, is not complex. It is simple, but comprehensive, no less beautiful in diction than lofty in aspiration. These are the pledges which are graven upon their memories:

"As it is cowardly for a soldier to run away from battle, so it is cowardly for any citizen not to contribute his share to the well-being of his country. America is my own dear land; she nourishes me, and I will love her and do my duty to her, whose child, servant and civil soldier I am.

"As the health and happiness of my body depend upon each muscle and nerve and drop of blood doing its work in its place, so the health and happiness of my country depend upon each citizen doing his work in his place.

"These young citizens are our hostages to fortune. Can we not safely assume that the principles animating their lives augur well for the permanency of the Republic? When before have the foundation stones of continuance been laid with such care and promise of durability?"

"The future, then, is bright. And the present? But one thing is needed. No present movement is more laudable than that which looks to conservation of natural resources. But let us never forget that the greatest inherent resource of the American people is Common Sense. Let that be conserved and applied without cessation, and soon it will be found that all the ills of which we complain but know not of are only such as attend upon the growing pains of a great and blessed country."

He Knows the Game.

According to the Metropolitan Magazine, Fire Chief John Conway of Jersey City, has solved the baseball excuse question by the posting of the following printed notice on his desk at fire headquarters:

"All requests for leave of absence owing to grandmothers' funerals, lame back, house cleaning, moving, sore throat, headache, brainstorm, cousins' wedding, general indisposition, etc., must be handed to the chief not later than ten o'clock on the morning of the game."

THE OUTCAST GYPSY

Now the Modern Ishmael Among Civilized Nations.

England and the United States Now Turned Against Them—Efforts to Induce Them to Settle Down Unavailing.

Washington.—Everywhere throughout the civilized world the hand of mankind seems to be raised against the gypsies. The last two refugees to which they betook themselves—the United States and England—have set their faces against them. Hereafter in England they are to be treated like common vagrants, without visible means of support, while in the United States the immigration laws serve to debar them as idle and dangerous nomads.

France decided some years ago that the gypsy was a public menace and, in the summary fashion of the republic when it makes up its mind to a thing, expelled him as relentlessly as it has expelled the monks.

Germany, which is a grim manufacturing establishment, after all, simply ordered its thousands of sentinels along its bayoneted border to turn back every gypsy who showed his nose at the line.

Wrathful and perplexed, the Roman moved on to Belgium; but hostile bayonets met them there. Desperate, for they hate water like so many wildcats, they took to the canals of placid Holland. But the phlegmatic Dutchmen, every tradition of their plodding industry outraged at sight of the gay wanderers, drove them out again.

Meanwhile, the Balkans, where the gypsy has ever roamed as free as any other bird of prey, have begun to feel the call of settled prosperity. If Balkan politics will ever give agriculture its chance—that attends the lowering kite and the importation of American reapers and binders. Sheep stealers and horse swindlers are impressing the fiery-souled mountaineers less than they used to, and the bars are being steadily raised against the gypsy, on the ground that he is a common tramp, who contributes nothing to the country and deserves nothing from it.

Transylvania, time out of mind, has been the gypsy's native heath. The hills and caves let him live the life of the early troglodyte, and the industrious among the population afforded him sustenance. But all Roman can't subsist on the loot of Transylvania, and Hungary and Austria received the first overflow.

Maria Theresa a hundred and fifty years ago had a brilliant idea for squelching the dangerous nomads. She provided dowries for all gypsy maidens who would marry her Austrian subjects. It was the most popular move any empress ever made, especially with the gypsy maidens. They applied for the dowries in beautiful, bridal droves; got them; and ran off with their gypsy husbands and lovers day after day, until Maria Theresa concluded that gypsy maidens were likely to prove unprofitable investments.

Emperor Joseph II. thought he had them fixed forever when he gave them houses and lands, seed, grain and farming implements. The seeds were promptly eaten; the houses became horse stables; the implements were sold, and the owners moved on.

There are believed to be 300,000 of them in Austria and Hungary still; 100,000 in Turkey; 150,000 in Russia; 200,000 in Spain and Portugal; 50,000 in Italy; 10,000 in the United States, and several thousand in South America, to whose broad pampas and rich plantations their nomad fancy has been turning for some years past. In all, the whole race of gypsies, as known to the white nations, numbers fewer than a million; and the whole mass of them is forever moving on.

The great traveler and ethnologist, Sir Richard Burton, whose translation of the Arabian Nights has immortalized him, is one of the few genuinely scientific men who have studied the origins of the gypsies in a genuinely scientific manner. He does not condemn them utterly, and is at pains to note that the race has, at times, produced men of real distinction. He quotes the families of the Hungarian Hunyadis, the Russian Tolstoy, the Scotch Melvilles, the Cassills and the Contis in France under Louis XIV., and the famous gypsy chief, Thomas Pulgar, who, in 1496, gave Bishop Sigismund the help he needed to beat back the Turkish invader from Europe.

THE NEGRO PROBLEM IN LIBERIA

BY OVERTON PRICE

PRESIDENT ARTHUR BARCLAY

THE first idea of a "Liberia"—settlement of free negroes—arose with the foundation of the British colony of Sierra Leone. After the close of the American War of Independence in 1783 it became necessary to provide for the negro troops who had served Great Britain faithfully in that unhappy struggle. They were at first deported to Nova Scotia, but had no place there in the body politic of white men; they were no longer slaves, but the idea of granting the suffrage to negroes was then displeasing to the dominant race. There was also the problem of the free Maroon negroes of Jamaica, who were irksome to the authorities in a land of slavery. So the idea of founding a free negro state or community in West Africa for the reception of enfranchised American negroes came into being about 1784, and in 1787 the colony of Sierra Leone was founded under a chartered company and taken over by the crown in 1808.

Early in the nineteenth century the same difficulty arose in the United States, namely, the presence of thousands of free negroes whose case had not been sufficiently provided for by the American Constitution. Somehow

A NATIVE VILLAGE IN THE INTERIOR

VIEW OF CAPE PALMAS

British protectorate of Sierra Leone and the French possessions of the Sudan and Ivory Coast.

Consequently the Liberian government has been forced of late years to live somewhat beyond its means in organizing a police and a marine, in occupying the Kru coast and in attempting to construct roads to places of importance in the interior. It has from time to time engaged European officers for its services; but whereas some of these engagements have been of noteworthy success, others have been the reverse, and it is difficult to locate the blame. European capital is somewhat shy of Liberia, partly owing to the turbulence of the interior natives (though this has been exaggerated, for white men very seldom really incur danger from the indigenes), but more on account of the irresponsible fickleness of the legislature, which is given too much to the hasty making and unmaking of laws and to conflicts of opinion with the executive.

Yet the country is extremely rich. Its rocks and river valleys produce both gold and diamonds, some of the coast districts (especially in the east) even give indications of the existence of bitumen, or oil-bearing strata, while the forests of the interior are remarkable for their wealth of rubber-bearing trees and lianas, their ebony, African teak and "mahogany," and the plassava fiber (derived from the raphia palm), which is used for so many purposes connected with the making of brooms and brushes. Then there is the oil-palm, with its two kinds of oil, both valuable to commerce—the oil of the husk and that of the kernel. The extraction of this last and its great value for special industries are said to have been discovered some seventy-five years ago by an American negro, one of the early colonists of Liberia. A great deal was done by these freed slave settlers, for which they have never received sufficient credit.

Unfortunately the attempted colonization of Liberia has been hindered by the American negro colonists proving almost as much liable to malarial fever and other African diseases as Europeans. They seem to have lost the relative immunity from these blood-germ maladies which their African ancestors enjoyed. The modern America-Liberian does not stand the climate of Liberia much better than the white man from Europe or America. The country is not unhealthy in the interior; it is the coast belt which, with its eternal heat and moisture, its very short dry seasons, and torrential rains (conditions which suit admirably the cultivation of rubber, coffee and cacao) saps the vitality of residents not of African birth. And the hinterland, with its superior conditions of climate, has already a somewhat large indigenous population, who are not eager for foreign additions to their numbers.

Hiring Help In East Africa

The "servant problem" is bad enough in America, and the experiences mistresses have to relate are many and varied; but an infinitely wider range of possibilities is opened up when more man—and a bachelor at that—tackles the servant and other household problems in an East African bungalow. Anything can happen—and does happen!

Native house servants of a sort are plentiful enough around the chief towns of British East Africa, Nairobi and Mombasa, and the slightest rumor that the Mzungu (white man) requires a "boy" or m'pezi (cook) fills one's compound with cooks, "generals" and raw niggers, representing every tribe under Africa's sun, a writer in the Wide World says.

The average bachelor contents himself with four servants—a head "boy," a cook, a "toto" (youth) to assist them, and a m'benzi (raw, untrained native) for odd jobs, gardening, etc. It is no easy task to make a selection from the host of eager, voluble applicants. Dirty, carefully stuck-together "baruas" (testimonials) are examined and the owners questioned, but it is unwise to put much faith in these documents, for it is no unusual occurrence for a "boy"—on the principle of "the more the merrier"—to proudly present you with three testimonials, every one bearing a different name from the one under which he introduces himself!

These gentry are always greatly offended when you kick them off the veranda and tell them they have bought or stolen the documents from other natives! Upon one occasion a would-be cook brought me a "barua" signed by a well-known settler and worded:

"To whom it may concern: The bearer of this 'barua' is an infernal rogue and thief. Please kick him out."

By the time I had stopped laughing the nigger had arrived at the conclusion that something was wrong and was doing record time down the path, so I was unable to avail myself of the kind invitation.

She Took No Chances.

A happily wedded matron is the principal of an odd incident, which one of her "dear" friends relates.

Before the matron's engagement to her present husband was announced, she met her "dear" friend on the street. The new matron was hurrying toward one of the large jewelry stores of the city.

"John gave me an engagement ring," she explained, without a shadow of embarrassment, "and I am going down to see how much it cost. You see, I got the jeweler's name off the box," and she hurried on.

The same friend said that another bit of information the matron got was the commercial standing of the prospective husband, which she secured by paying for a special report from a commercial agency.

Confusing.

Craig Biddle, at a dinner in Newport, was describing the changing odds on the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno.

"Eight to four and a half on Jeffries—nine to six the other way about—three to one and a quarter—it's rather confusing, isn't it?" he said. "In fact, it's almost as confusing as the two girls' talk about a secret."

"Mary," said the first girl, "told me that you had told her that secret I told you not to tell her."

"The nasty thing," said the other girl, "I told her not to tell you I told her."

"Well," said the first girl, "I told her I wouldn't tell you she told me—so don't tell her I did."

PUZZLED

Hard Work, Sometimes, to Raise Children.

Children's taste is oftentimes more accurate, in selecting the right kind of food to fit the body, than that of adults. Nature works more accurately through the children.

A Brooklyn lady says: "Our little boy had long been troubled with weak digestion. We could never persuade him to take more than one taste of any kind of cereal food. He was a weak little chap and we were puzzled to know what to feed him on."

"One lucky day we tried Grape-Nuts. Well, you never saw a child eat with such a relish, and it did me good to see him. From that day on it seemed as though we could almost see him grow. He would eat Grape-Nuts for breakfast and supper, and I think he would have liked the food for dinner."

"The difference in his appearance is something wonderful."

"My husband had never fancied cereal foods of any kind, but he became very fond of Grape-Nuts and has been much improved in health since using it."

"We are now a healthy family, and naturally believe in Grape-Nuts."

"A friend has two children who were formerly afflicted with rickets. I was satisfied that the disease was caused by lack of proper nourishment. They showed it. So I urged her to use Grape-Nuts as an experiment and the result was almost magical."

"They continued the food and today both children are well and strong as any children in this city, and, of course, my friend is a firm believer in Grape-Nuts for she has the evidence before her eyes every day."

A NATIVE CHRISTIAN FAMILY

or other these free negroes and mulattoes—growing impatient of being taxed without representation—must be provided for. So several philanthropists, remembering Sierra Leone, thought to promote by private enterprise and philanthropy a similar colony across the sea which might provide for the return to West Africa (whence most of them had come) of the freed slaves of the United States. Indeed, there was a strong disposition to adopt Sierra Leone for this purpose, with the assent of the British government; but the local authorities of Sierra Leone showed themselves very averse from receiving American negroes, who might owe a divided allegiance.

Accordingly the American founders of "Liberia" (this name was not given to the infant state until 1824)—who were mostly white men with a few mulattoes and negroes—selected the Grain Coast, immediately to the south and east of Sierra Leone, for their experiment.

It was some weeks before the hostility of the natives, who were wedded to the slave trade, could be overcome, but in 1822 active operations were begun. A thirty-acre tract was allotted to each man with the means of cultivating it. The National Colonization society's agents became discouraged at the difficulties that were met and returned to America with a few faint-hearted ones; but the others rallied about a determined negro, Elijah Johnson, and remained. The colony was enlarged by the addition of new tracts. New settlements were afterward formed at Cape Monte and in the newly acquired Bassa Land, in which, in 1834, a town was founded and called Edina, in acknowledgment of pecuniary aid sent from Edinburgh. Many of the neighboring chiefs were received into the colony, and others were subdued. Trials of many kinds, deprivations and dissensions were the lot of the colony, managed by a society which did not fully know whether its aims were sentimental or practical. In 1847 Liberia was left to its own resources and declared an independent republic. The colony immediately began to show more prosperity, numerous churches and schools were founded, newspapers were established, and slavery in the neighboring states was abolished. The first president of independent Liberia was Roberts, an octroon. He was a most able and courageous man and the country made rapid strides in civilization and other material lines of progress under his administration.

The constitution of the republic is framed after that of the United States. There are a president, vice-president, a council of six ministers and a house of representatives. Voters must be of negro blood and own real estate. The natives generally do not avail themselves of the suffrage. No foreigner can own land without the consent of the government. The coast territory is formed into the counties of Bassa, Cape Palmas and Sinoe, with one superintendent each, and Montserrado, with four superintendents. The capital is Monrovia, named after President Monroe. English money is used, but American money figures usually in the keeping of accounts. There is a Liberian coinage and a rather large paper currency. The official language of the country is English. The civilized inhabitants are orthodox Protestants, mostly Episcopalians.

During the fifties and sixties of the last century the Americo-Liberians did much to explore the interior and enter into treaty relationships with the native chiefs. But thirty years ago their administration began to get into financial difficulties. It is not an easy thing to create a well-ordered, well-governed state in tropical Africa without a considerable capital to draw on. Consider for a moment what Great Britain has spent on Sierra Leone since 1787, and on the Gold Coast wars, the opening up of Nigeria; or the outlay of France on Senegambia or Dahomey; and then imagine how the government of Liberia could do without any reserve of capital bring law, order and civilization into a densely forested territory nearly the size of England, with a probable population of over a million warlike savages and semi-savages.

So long as Britain and France—the controlling powers—contented themselves with the mere occupation of a few coast towns on the seaboard of their West African dominions or protectorates, the Monrovia government could afford to do the same. But when these great European powers were compelled by force of circumstances to occupy and administer the regions behind their coasts the Liberians found themselves in a position of great difficulty. They had been allotted theoretically by France and England a considerable hinterland—more than 50,000 square miles—and were held responsible for the doings of the native tribes in that extensive interior. Now these tribes had never been subdued by the government of the republic. They were many of them in treaty relationships with the Monrovia administration, and such of them as had heard of the civilized negro government on the coast (and it must be remembered that much of the interior is dense forest, inhabited by tribes who for ages have been isolated in that forest, and were—and are—quite ignorant of the world outside their tribal land) were quite willing to regard the Liberians as the ruling power on the seashore. But they were very disinclined to obey orders from Monrovia if contrary to their own desires.

The tribes farthest inland looked upon the British and French—the "white men"—as aggressors who were putting down by force a most lucrative slave trade, who were forcibly disclosing the secrets of sacred streams like the Niger near its sources, who, in short, were not only to be opposed, but whose organized territories offered a most profitable field for raids and robberies. More than this; the import of guns, gunpowder, rifles (above all) and alcohol was being restricted or forbidden by the Europeans. The Liberian coast, especially where it was slenderly guarded by the Liberian administration, offered the one loophole through which these forbidden goods might be smuggled. Accordingly a great trade sprang up between these uncontrolled hinterland tribes and the Kru people on the coast, who affected a sort of detachment from the government by the American-Negro republic. In these ways the Liberian hinterland became a positive source of danger and expense to the

There is some fun in a primary fight after all.

Foss is still wondering what hit him over this way.

We are still all good Republicans together, winners and losers alike.

We take our hats off to Westerfield. The old war horses are still guessing how he did it.

If Mr. Engelhard had got into the game two weeks earlier there would have been nothing to it.

Those Waukegan silkstockings will now have a chance to get better acquainted with Elmer Green.

The Waukegan politician who said that Foss had a ring in the nose of Antioch township won't say it again.

Price is a good fellow but it won't hurt him to get out and work for a living for a while. Perhaps later we will find something equally as good for him.

Well, perhaps now we will get that gun boat on Channel Lake for Charley Smith after all. That is if Foss runs the navy again but there is a guess coming on that.

It commences to look as if the owners of the Chicago Tribune would have to vote the socialist ticket this fall like their "little brother of the rich" Joseph Medill Patterson of Libertyville.

Mr. Jackson will have to carry his sad story to Governor Deneen but like a good sport he announces he is going to get out and make a good fight for the ticket. That's what we are all going to do.

The Chicago buttrine trust newspapers must feel like thirty cents or even less after looking over the vote cast for Mr. Shurtleff in this district. When we want their advice hereafter we will send an ambulance down there to bring them up.

Stearns threatens to run as an independent candidate for the legislature. Somebody should suggest to Mr. Stearns that if he really wants to commit political suicide where the demise will be a lasting one this is the way to do it. Where is his vote to come from against the regular nominees, not from the goo-gos, surely.

Ed Shurtleff's showing in Antioch township is one he may well feel proud of. The fact that Lake county had three candidates in the field on the same list speaks well for his popularity hereabouts. Likewise it shows that many republicans of this vicinity are not bound by county lines and realize that their personal interests are going to be best conserved by returning Mr. Shurtleff to the next session of the Illinois legislature.

The News likes to be modest but we can't help calling attention to the fact that every Lake county candidate but one supported by this paper before the primaries won out in Antioch township by a handsome plurality. The News doesn't pretend to dictate public sentiment but we certainly have a right to suggest that if after making an aggressive fight public sentiment does come our way, then perhaps we had something to do with it.

The goo-gos announce that they are coming up to this district and put up an independent republican candidate for the legislature against Mr. Vickers and Mr. Shurtleff. Don't imagine for a minute this Chicago stunt is a matter of principle. It is a matter of dollars and the same buttrine money is back of it that was back of the primary campaign. Those fellows who pose as republicans would disrupt the whole party in this district if they could get the legislation they want and they propose to get it by fair means or foul. We believe all good party men cannot fail but to see them angle.

A Pull Altogether

A long pull and a strong pull and a pull altogether is up to the Republicans of this county for the November elections.

The primary has spoken and as a voice of the party it should be final. Mr. Foss has been named for Congress, Mr. Shurtleff and Mr. Vickers have been selected for the legislature and a full county ticket of good men is provided. It is our duty to give each and every one conscientious support from now on until election day.

For what good are Republican party primaries if this is not to be the result when a fair and square test among various aspirants for republican nominations has been made and those stamped with approval were deserted by the less fortunate and their supporters on the day in November when we all go to meet the common enemy.

What would become of the Republican party, what would become of any party were not the minority willing to follow the majority. It is no longer like the old convention days when a hall might be packed and nominations made that in no respect represented the will of the party at large. But that complaint cannot be made now by those who fail to win out.

The primary embodies the deliberative will of the whole people. Every member is given his chance to register his choice and he is likewise given ample time to be sure that he knows his own mind. This is why when the majority speak it is the voice of Republicanism.

There is an implied agreement among men who go into a party primary declaring themselves to be members of a certain party that they propose to abide results and be with that party even if the results are not entirely pleasing to them. This is the ultimate basis of party organization for the same principle held in the old convention days.

Were it not for this there would be no "Grand Old Party" now. It would have died in the days of Fremont.

To look at this question another way. What kind of a fellow is he anyway who will go into an honest, straightforward contest implying that he agrees the winner is to have the persimmon and then because he didn't win it himself says he won't play any more and then goes over into a neighbor's yard and tries to reach through the fence and steal the persimmon for himself anyway.

We don't think anybody thinks much of that kind of a weak sister because from any angle he sizes up wrong. He is a poor sport, a selfish citizen and a fickle party man. Look him up well and you will find the above is his watermark.

The whole thing is this; to be a good Republican we must line up with the wisdom of the majority of our party. Perhaps today we are the minority but there is a tomorrow coming and then perhaps we may be the majority. But if we don't line up with the majority today perhaps tomorrow there would be no republican party that could do things and then what would be the use of being in the majority or any where else.

For the benefit of yourself and the party, vote the regular Republican ticket.

Fond of Scientific Instruments.
Ingenuous devices appeal to the people of China. The wealthy Chinese are extremely fond of musical instruments and often carry two or more watches and wear foreign glasses. The Chinese is well known for his fondness for clocks, telescopes, field glasses, in fact, almost any scientific instrument.

A Gift for a Baby.
A charming gift for a new baby is a set of washed gold safety pins. These are not the small sets connected by a chain used to fasten the little frocks, but are ordinary safeties specially gold washed for the purpose.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys must, because they do most and should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. A trial will convince you of its great merit.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

Walking Honeymoon in Germany.
The walking honeymoon is a custom. Young couples who prefer to keep their money or who haven't any for a wedding trip by train, swing knapsacks over their shoulders on the wedding day and set out for a week's tramp, stopping over night at the roadside tavern. I remember being told a story in the Bavarian Alps of the gloomy young man whose extreme melancholy at the village inn caused sympathetic inquiries. He confessed that he had been married the day before to the belle of the village, and as they didn't have means for both of them to take a wedding trip, he had been obliged to tramp alone.—Elmer Roberts in Collier's.

It Saved His Leg.
"All thought I'd lose my leg," writes J. A. Swensen, of Watertown, Wis. "Ten years of eczema that 15 doctors could not cure, had at last laid me up. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it sound and well." Infalible for skin eruptions, eczema, salt rheum, boils, fever sores, burns, scalds, cuts and piles. 25c at J. H. Swan's.

New York Has Bones of Whale.
The jaw bones of the largest whale ever caught by Japanese whalers have just arrived here, consigned to the Museum of National History, New York. The bones weigh fifty-five tons—110,000 pounds. They are forty feet long and were transported from the steamship pier on a large truck drawn by twelve horses. The whale was caught off Moji, Japan, and was more than two hundred feet over all. The tail was thirty feet long.

How Not to Succeed.
If you hope to succeed in life you must obey certain rules, says the Atchison Globe. If you do not get down to work before 9 o'clock; if you get sick easily and remain away from your work a full day you are not obeying the rules necessary to success, and you know it. And if you refuse to obey the rules don't be a cheat and say "luck" is against you. You know what the truth is—admit it. If you don't the neighbors will.

SHOOTS RAPIDS LIKE A FURY

Engine of Motor Craft Gets Out of Order, Preventing Daring Man from Completing Scheduled Trip—Is Slightly Hurt.

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—Capt. Klaus Larsen Sunday in his motor boat Ferro made a successful trip through the whirlpool rapids of Niagara.

Because the engine was put out of order in the vicinity of the whirlpool he did not go clear to Lewiston in the boat which, after leaving the pool, drifted into Dead Man's eddy near Niagara university, where it was swung to shore. Larsen was picked up by an electric car and taken to Lewiston, three miles further down stream, where his injured arm was treated. The boat was apparently undamaged.

Starting at five o'clock, it took Larsen five minutes to reach the railway bridges and the next minute his boat, the Ferro, had ridden the first wave. Then came a frightful tumult of strike after strike. Never before had a motor boat been in such a sea, but it was clear that Larsen was in control as the boat responded nicely to the helm. He shot through the rapids and into the pool like a fury and was soon being rushed across the great river pocket, having failed to make the outlet as he expected. He swung to the Canadian side and into the driftwood. But from this he hurried away under power. He drove his boat away across to the New York side and swung out of the outlet.

It was about this time that the engine went wrong and he drifted into an eddy near Niagara university below the Devil's hole. As the Ferro swung toward shore it seemed as though it would be beaten on the rocks, but people on shore prevented this and helped Larsen land.

Speaking of his experience, he said: "I tell you those waves in the rapids gave me some fierce hits. I thought they would beat my head off, but at no time did I fail to realize where I was and what was taking place. I had passed the worst of it when my boat failed to respond to her power and I could easily have reached Lewiston by drifting had I not been caught in that eddy."

BROWNE GETS NOMINATION

Legislator Freed From Bribery Charge Wins in the Illinois Primary Election.

Chicago.—In the Illinois primaries Thursday Frederick H. Gansberger defeated Congressman Henry Sherman Boutwell for the Republican nomination for congress in the Ninth district.

George E. Foss, another of the veterans from Chicago, had a narrow call in the Tenth district. Late returns indicated that G. P. Englehardt was leading by 100 votes, with nearly fifty precincts to hear from.

With the exception of the Ninth and Tenth districts, the Republican congressmen from Cook county were renominated without a break.

In the districts outside of Chicago the chief items of Republican interest were the nominations of George W. Conn, Jr., of Woodstock in the Eleventh district, over Ira J. Copley and John C. McKenzie of Elizabeth in the Thirteenth district.

In the Eighteenth district, Speaker Joseph G. Cannon won in a walk, his opponent, Henry B. Downs, hardly getting into the race. The other Republican incumbents throughout the state were renominated with little trouble.

The hardest fight for the Democrats came in the Fourth district, where State Senator Rainey and Congressman McDermott ran a neck and neck race. McDermott, however, won by a comfortable plurality.

Incomplete returns indicate that the men who voted for William Lorimer for senator in the general assembly, both Republican and Democratic, gained a sweeping victory.

Even the men who were drawn into the "jackpot" investigation have been renominated by overwhelming majorities except in perhaps two instances. Representative Lee O'Neill Browne outdistanced all his competitors in La Salle county.

State Senator John Broderick, under indictment in Sangamon county, won by a vote of almost 2 to 1.

Robert E. Wilson, in the Sixth district, also wins handsily. Speaker Shurtliff was renominated by a plurality of more than 3,000 votes.

Late returns indicate that the Legislative Voters' league was badly beaten throughout nearly all the precincts in Chicago. It was in this field that the league made its hardest fight.

ZEPPELIN DIRIGIBLE NO. 7 EXPLODES IN AERODROME.

Three of Crew Are Hurt When Motor Cylinder Blows Up at Baden-Baden.

Baden-Baden.—The German dirigible balloon Zeppelin VI., while entering its shed, was blown up Wednesday by an explosion of the motor cylinder in the rear gondola. Three of the airship's crew were injured seriously. The accident happened as the dirigible was being slowly worked into its shed here. The defective motor had been operating as usual, when suddenly the crew were whirled from their posts in the rear gondola as the craft trembled and lurched. There was a sharp report, a flash of flame and in a moment the immense fabric of silk canvas was afire.

The fire spread so rapidly that the shed was soon destroyed.

ENDS WAR ON INSURGENTS

President Taft Declares That Patronage Door Will Hereafter Be Open to All Sides.

Beverly, Mass.—No difference between so-called "Progressives" and "Regulars" will be recognized by President Taft hereafter, but all party leaders will be treated alike as Republicans in the matter of federal support.

The president's views to this effect are given in a letter from Secretary Norton to a Republican leader of Iowa, whose name is not disclosed.

In the letter Secretary Norton stated that while important Republican legislation pending in congress was opposed by certain Republican leaders, the president felt that his duty required him to withhold federal patronage from senators and representatives who seemed to occupy a position hostile to efforts to fulfill the pledges of the party platform.

That attitude on the part of the president ended, however, with the more recent primary elections and nominating conventions to which the people have declared themselves, and the president now looks upon "Progressives" and "Regulars" alike as Republicans and as such entitled to his support and the support of the party, and the fall elections, Secretary Norton's letter says, must settle the question whether the differences of the last session of congress shall be perpetuated or forgotten.

Among those from whom, it is said, the president temporarily withheld federal patronage were Senators La Follette, Bristow, Dooliver and Cummins and Representative Hubbard of Iowa.

ROOSEVELT DEFIES HIS FOES

Challenges Opponents to Come Out in Open and Fight—Warmly Commends Taft.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Coming into a stronghold of the opposition, former President Roosevelt boldly challenged the opponents of his political doctrines to come out in the open and fight if they dared. He prophesied that if they did they would be beaten.

The colonel also warmly commended President Taft as a public official, and expressed his approval of a number of the accomplishments of the Taft administration. He did not indorse the administration as a whole. What he did have to say, however, placed him on record for the first time in regard to many of the more important features of it, breaking the silence which he had maintained steadfastly on the subject except for his brief references to his successor made while he was on his western trip.

When Colonel Roosevelt arrived here Saturday from New York the state fair grounds where he spoke were thronged with a crowd estimated at 40,000.

POISON KILLED HER

SCIENTIST ON STAND IN CRIPPEN CASE DECLARES HE FOUND NO OTHER CAUSE.

WOMEN CROWD THE COURT

Many Remove Their Hats So Those in Rear May Not Miss a Move of Trembling Girl Prisoner—Dentist Retains Jaunty Air.

London.—On the resumption of the trial of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and his typist, Ethel Leneve, charged with the slaying of the former's wife, Belle Elmore, the actress, Dr. William Henry Wilcox, scientific analyst to the home office, who discovered poison in the body found in Crippen's residence, went on the witness stand and swore that death was caused by the deadly drug.

The physician described the nature of the medium used and said that from a quarter to half a grain would prove fatal. He had found two-eighths of a grain after a lapse of four to eight months, and judged that more than half a grain had been administered. He found no other cause of death and expressed the opinion that the victim survived the dose an hour or more.

Before Doctor Wilcox was called the crown introduced medical testimony to corroborate that given on Wednesday by Prof. Augustus J. Pepper, pathologist of the University of London, who swore that the body had been disfigured by one familiar with the science of anatomy.

The gruesome exhibits and the unpleasant character of the testimony at the last session did not deter the curious from struggling to get into the Bow street police court, and the section apportioned to the public was crowded.

CHANLER GIVES ALL TO DIVA

Lawyers File Cavalleri Ante-Nuptial Agreement Between Opera Singer and New Yorker.

New York.—The pre-nuptial agreement between Mme. Lina Cavalleri, the opera singer, and Robert Winthrop Chanler, the terms of which have been the subject of many divergent reports of disagreements between the old Astor family and the Italian diva, was filed Friday in the register's office by counsel for the singer.

The agreement recites that in consideration of the intended marriage and of the sum of $1 that Mr. Chanler gives to Mme. Cavalleri "all those three farms, known respectively as Cole farm, Chowell and Benna farm in Red Hook, N. Y., approximating 350 acres and subject to a mortgage of $600,000.

The agreement further provides that Mr. Chanler turns over to Mme. Cavalleri the land and buildings in New York city situated in several parts of the city, comprising in all thirty pieces of property, and concludes, "and all other realty forming part of the share of the above named Robert Winthrop Chanler or of the estate of the late Mrs. Laura Delano, subject to a mortgage of $140,000."

The agreement further provides that Mr. Chanler agrees to pay the yearly sum of $20,000 to Mme. Cavalleri during her life, by four quarterly installments of $5,000 a quarter, the first of which shall be paid within thirty days from the marriage.

It was agreed that the property of each of them, both personal and future, should remain the separate property and under the sole control of each of them.

CALEB POWERS FOR CONGRESS

IS NOMINATED BY REPUBLICANS IN 11TH KENTUCKY DISTRICT.

Served Eight Years in Prison for Complicity in Murder of Governor Gobel.

Lexington, Ky.—In the primary of the Republicans of the Eleventh congressional district Caleb Powers, who for eight years was a state's prisoner on the charge of complicity in the murder of Gov. William Gobel on the streets of Frankfort January 29, 1900, defeated Don C. Edwards, the present incumbent.

Since Powers was freed by a pardon from Governor Willson, the mountaineers have stood by him, believing him to be a political martyr and despite all influences that could be brought to bear on him by the followers of Edwards they returned Powers the Republican nominee by a large majority. Money was spent freely on both sides, it is said.

The indications are that when all returns are received Powers will be nominated by 5,000. Much trouble was had at the polls among the adherents of the two principals and at Grape Vine, Squire Colwell shot and killed John Holmes. Trouble arose over the election and the killing resulted.

The fight for the nomination has been the most bitter in the history of Kentucky and it was feared that the followers of Powers and Edwards would come to open conflict, but aside from the trouble at Grape Vine, no shooting occurred.

SEE MRS. TINGLEY IN PLOT

Leader of Theosophist Cult Is Sued by Dead Woman Convert's Son—Conspiracy Charged.

Newcastle, Pa.—George L. Patterson, vice-president of the National Bank of Lawrence County, has sued Mrs. Katherine Tingley, head of the Theosophist colony at Point Loma, Cal., to recover $300,000 from the estate of his mother. He also asks for an accounting for $700,000 more.

His mother, Mrs. Harriet P. Thurston, was a member of the colony, and charges of undue influence on the part of Mrs. Tingley are the basis of the suit.

It is charged that in furtherance of a conspiracy, Mrs. Tingley placed assistants in constant contact with Mrs. Thurston, and that they impressed upon the dying woman the doctrine that the people of the world should continue one universal brotherhood; that family ties were to be regarded as of minor importance, and that her three children were not entitled to any part of her fortune.

"MAN HIGHER UP" IN SUGAR TRUST GETS EIGHT MONTHS.

STAY OF EXECUTION GRANTED

Judge's Decree, Which Includes Five, Is Culminating Point of Government's Prosecution of Weighing Frauds.

New York.—Charles R. Heike, former secretary and treasurer of the American Sugar Refining company, who has been called "the man higher up" in the sugar trust, was Monday sentenced by Judge Martin in the United States circuit court to serve eight months in the New York penitentiary on Blackwell's island and to pay a fine of $5,000, on conviction of conspiring to defraud the government by the underweighing of sugar.

Judge Martin granted a stay of execution of the sentence pending an appeal to the United States circuit court of appeals. The court also reduced Heike's bail, which had been $25,000 since his conviction last June, to $15,000.

CRAZED OVER CRIPPEN LOVE

Woman Testifies That Doctor's Companion Confessed Fears She Might Not Marry Him.

London.—What Ethel Clara Leneve suffered as, half mad with jealousy, she impatiently waited the fulfillment of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen's promise to make her his wife, was revealed Monday at the inquest into the death of Crippen's wife, Belle Elmore, with the murder of whom the doctor and his typist are jointly charged.

In her distress Miss Leneve confided in her landlady, Mrs. Jackson. Mrs. Jackson said that the accused girl gave up her room March 12, expecting that she was leaving to marry Doctor Crippen.

Until the first week in February Miss Leneve slept regularly at Mrs. Jackson's. After that she stopped at the house only occasionally. She said that she passed the other nights at the homes of friends. Once, early in February, Miss Leneve mentioned having been at the Hilldrop-Crescent home of the Crippens to help the doctor search for a bank book which showed an account of $1,000. A diamond ring and rings had been found in the house and the doctor raised $850 on them.

About the middle of February, the witness said, Miss Leneve appeared in a "terrifying state of agitation." Her eyes seemed starting out of her head. The landlady insisted on an explanation.

"Would you be surprised if I told you that it was the doctor and Miss Elmore?" the witness quoted Miss Leneve as saying. "He was the cause of my trouble when you first knew me. She is his wife, and when I see them go away together it makes me realize my position as to what she is and what I am."

"What is the use of you worrying about another woman's husband?" Mrs. Jackson had asked. "Miss Elmore has been threatening to go away, with another man. Doctor Crippen has been waiting for her to do so, when he would divorce her."

The murder was witnessed by the victim's wife and two daughters, who were aroused when Hiller attacked the intruder at the head of the stairs on the second floor. The men fought for several minutes, finally rolling to the foot of the stairs. The negro fled.

Within half an hour Lieut. Charles M. Atkinson and four detectives were scouring the neighborhood and a suspect was arrested. He gave the name of William Jones.

Hiller's daughter, Clarice, later identified Jones as the man who slew her father.
